

Chapmans have acted for hundreds of clients over 50 years, and has recovered hundreds of thousands of pounds in damages; for loss of life, personal injuries and other consequential claims, such as lost earnings. The Partner, in charge of the department, Andrew Findlay, has for 18 years represented clients in many different types of accident, including those on the road, at work or in public places. In some cases, those accidents have resulted in bereavement or injuries that have had a catastrophic impact on the victim's life or on their family.

Our job, is to recover the most we possibly can for the victim or their family. The compensation will never make up for the loss of a child or partner, a limb or quality of life. However, choose the right Solicitor and the process of claiming compensation can be made less painful and can perhaps help those involved, on the road towards some degree of rehabilitation.

"A friendly and personable approach to your legal problems."

We aim to provide a fast and efficient service; unfortunately by its very nature a fatal accident or personal injury action can be drawn out, involving as it often does, complex legal issues or a long period of rehabilitation. In any event, we will regularly update you with developments in your case and explain things to you in every day language.

Often, it is not simply a case of assessing the value of your claim, there may in addition be other issues, for example, identifying and proving who was at fault and responsible for your losses and whether those losses were caused by the accident. If expert help is required, in order to assist in determining these or other issues, we will be able to enrol the right experts for the job, whether a forensic scientist or accountant, an engineer or someone specialising in a particular field of medicine.

It has always been this firm's policy, to ensure that the client recovers all the compensation to which they are entitled and that no deductions are made, from those damages, for the costs of pursuing the claim. We are happy to discuss with you the various options for funding the claim, whether this is through legal expenses insurance, a conditional fee agreement (a so called "no win no fee" arrangement) or on a private fee paying basis.

Telephone today and we will offer you the earliest possible appointment free of charge, without obligation.

We also have brochures on the following services:

- Family Law
- Employment
- Private Client
- Conveyancing

Please telephone and we will be happy to forward these to you.

Chapmans have a long tradition of providing the highest quality legal work to the local community it serves.

The firm offers advocacy and advice, not only in Personal Injury matters, but additionally, in all areas of employment law, family work and civil litigation.

Members of the firm are also able to deal with conveyancing and other private client work, including wills, the preparation of enduring powers of attorney and the administration of estates.

Although the firm has deep historical roots, it is modern and forward thinking. This is reflected in the advanced technology used within the firm.

However, the traditional values, which have given the firm its enviable reputation, are still adhered to: In short, to provide clients with a service that is at all times both professional and efficient, but also personal.

“A friendly and personable approach to your legal problems.”
